

Restaurants, Food

Eat Your Lunch Out: Yaletown

Image: Homer St. Cafe and Bar/Facebook

Jess Fleming

Aug 23, 2016 10:00 am 🔥

Sandwiched between breakfast (the alleged “most important meal of the day”) and dinner (the meal that seems to get all the attention), there’s no good reason to overlook lunch.

Lunch can be the midday bright spot in the workday, or where you linger on a day off. From where to settle in for a marathon chat sesh with the ladies who lunch, to handy spots for quick bites, we’re exploring lunch of all kinds, all around Vancouver.

Here's where to eat lunch if you're in Yaletown.

Homer St. Cafe and Bar

Dishing up hearty, top-notch lunches (and dinners) week-round, this Yaletown hot spot on the corner of Homer and Smithe is a terrific spot to enjoy a sit-down meal. Known for their juicy cuts of rotisserie chicken, it would be rude not order a plate, at least once. Sold in quarter, half, or whole cuts, with coleslaw, roasted potatoes, and a delectable chicken jus, this dish will have you coming back time and time again.

Address: 898 Homer Street, Vancouver

Phone: 604-428-4299

Twitter: @HomerStCafeBar